LON CHANEY PLAYS DEVIL "DEVILISH"

What with the New Frontier and single-button suits, even Satan had to be modernized. Portrayed by Lon Chaney Jr., the Devil in the new picture "The Devil's Messenger," now screening at the Theater, Lon Chaney brings a fiction to life right up to date. He plays the Devil with a sense of humor and a tongue-in-cheek approach. He burns a bomb into the audience a five hundred-megaton bomb. Thriller is based on the supernatural.

A beautiful young girl trapped in a glacier for thousands of years is the focal point for a scientist's lust, as he tries to free her and bring her back to life. Little does he realize that this is the doing of the Devil himself. LON CHANEY, who stars in "THE DEVIL'S MESSENGER," which is now playing at the Theater.

Announcement #1 (45 seconds) — A man caught in the web of panic brutally murders a beautiful woman he has never seen before. But the remorse from the deed will seek revenge on this man driven to crime by the Devil's Messenger. A scientist falls in love with a young girl, but he cannot free her for she is frozen in a huge block of ice, where she has been imprisoned for millions of years. His obsession to free her from her ice grave drives him to murder, but the scientist's desire turns him on but nakedness. The Devil's Messenger has done her work well, yet she herself seeks revenge on her lover, the man who drove her into the ice and to her Death squared? For the answer, see "The Devil's Messenger," starring that master of mystery, Lon Chaney, playing at your favorite theater.

Announcement #2 (30 seconds) — Lon Chaney, the master of murder and intrigue, stars in his latest suspenseful movie, "The Devil's Messenger." His Devil's Messenger spooks havoc on earth for him, bearing gifts from hell: an ordinary camera, which leads to the self-destructive of a photographer who commits the sin of a miner's pick, which uncovers a beautiful young girl trapped for millions of years in a glacier, and a crystal ball through which the Devil turns the tables on a killer. Be sure to see "The Devil's Messenger" at your favorite theater.

"THE DEVIL'S MESSENGER," starring LON CHANEY, is a supernatural thriller with suspense-packed action. The Devil's Messenger sets friend against friend as one pries into the secret love affairs of the other. Film is crammed with the mood of mystery, and is now playing at the Theater.

SUPERNATURAL THRILLER FEATURES DEVIL AND DOOMSDAY BOMB

Murder, a frozen female in a huge block of ice, Satan, his seductress assistant, and a five hundred-megaton bomb are all thrown into the plot to thrill artfully the moviegoers watching "The Devil's Messenger," now playing at the Theater.

Actor, Lon Chaney and Karen Kadler, "Devil" sets forth the premise that hell will be the final residence of all mankind with the self-destructive of a Big Bomb. Now armed with his tricky little thermocouple device to do people in, Chaney in his underground hangout dreams up some devilish delights. The most macabre present on earth is a nasty little camera; it's the undoing of a rapist, and a miner's pick and a crystal ball are the undoing of a pair of ready recruits. While it chills the blood, the picture carries a basic moral: if you're going to sin, prepare for a stretch in hell.

Two-faced action is the order of the day in "THE DEVIL'S MESSENGER," super mystery thriller starring LON CHANEY as the Devil, who sets friend against friend in a matter of murder. It is now featured at the Theater.

SUICIDE PORTRAYAL DIFFICULT ROLE

So says KAREN KADLER, talented young actress, starring with LON CHANEY in "The Devil's Messenger," soon to be seen at the ...

"While not exactly a Method actress," Karen states, "I did develop a slight neurosis in preparing for the role of the Devil's messenger. As an actor who is worth his salt must allow the role to completely take over the individual. This allows the actor to fuse with the character and therefore gives an unattained approach to the role."

Beautiful as well as talented, Karen was under contract to Universal-International studios for several years. She has had a number of assignments in meatier roles independent producers are assigning her in the dramatic vein to the "show-the-body" parts she had been given.

Winner of a "Miss Canada" contest, Miss Kadler, a dramatic student at the University of British Columbia, found herself in the crossroads, having to choose between the immediate success of a "cheesecake" career and the demanding work of serious drama. Selecting the latter, she continued her studies by appearing in a number of plays in a cannery, where her combination of Marilyn Monroe and Ava Gardner possibly drew more applause than whistles and applause.

Stuck to her career and studies, Karen became one of the most promising actresses in Canada, drawing the attention of Hollywood agents. Eddie Redick, who signed her with him at Universal-International, Bob Palmer, U-I's casting director, took one look, liked it, and signed her to a long-term contract. Now she is being cast by her to sex roles. Karen's frown at the one-way street with a capital "S" led to revolt. She asked for and got her release from U-I. Karen Kadler, producer of "The Devil's Messenger," immediately enlisted her to star opposite Lon Chaney in his mystery thriller, portraying a beautiful woman destined to take her own life.

MYSTERY FILM SETTING LAID IN BOWELS OF EARTH

A new concept of hell is the setting for the film "The Devil's Messenger," now screening at the ...

Theater.

Fans of the supernatural will enjoy this picture. Playing the Devil, LON CHANEY and his sexy assistant, Satanya, portrayed by dramatic actress KAREN KADLER. Together, they provide a team which could make cartoonish candidates for hell.

After providing several of their recruits with gimmicks for murder, they watch with glee as their victims fall into pits of hell. Satan's cook up a most diabolical plot. He wants the entire human race to commit the most unfortunate sin — man's suicide. Thus he directs Satanya to him so he can deliver a formula to the world. This formula contains the secret of the five hundred-megaton bomb.

Lon Chaney plays the monster from hell without makeup, and gives old Mephistopheles a new twist. Miss Kadler fills the role of his assistant with dramatic impact. Others in the cast lend credence to their parts.

"THE DEVIL'S MESSENGER"

BLACK AND WHITE
ASPECT RATIO 1.85 to 1
72 MINUTES

From the murky bowels of the earth, the Devil, LON CHANEY, metes out various forms of punishment to newly-arrived sinners. Selecting Satanya, KAREN KADLER, as a beautiful, very sinful, as his emissary to earth, the Devil instructs her to deliver entrapping devices to potential candidates for hell.

First, Satanya delivers a unique camera to a renowned but justful photographer in New York City. He rapes and kills a young, beautiful female occupant of one of his still-life subjects, a woman who is the model for his next picture. The victim is none other than the photographer, JOHN CRAWFORD, is driven to his own retribution-death by the repeated appearance of his victim's pletum in his prize-winning photograph of the old farmhouse.

Satanya is revealed by these satanical methods of entrap and condemn people to hell. Rather than let the Devil have his victim, she decides to send her to the fiery pit. He assures her that, if she fulfills his request, her car will be placed before a special tribunal. Handing her a miner's pick, he sends her to Tarsholm, Sweden, where this devilish toy is used to uncover a lascivious hen of humanity trapped in a glacier for millions of years. An anthropologist falls in love with this beauty from the past, and his one-way ticket to hell is issued. But he is thwarted from releasing her from her icy grave. His lust for her leads him to the pits of hell.

Now the Devil shows Satanya a diabolical plan. He gives her the means through a crystal ball to bring her, the man whom she snatched her wrists, down into the bowels of predication. In delivering on this mission, she is given the task of delivering an envelope to you, the people of earth. With great glee, the Devil reveals that this envelope contains a formula for human destruction. This destruction is unleashed on the unsuspecting human race, leaving only a wandering black cat to face the future.
